SASQUATCH BREWAM SCORES A HOLE-IN-ONE

The first-of-its-kind celebrity brewer golf tournament, known as the Sasquatch BrewAm, scored a hole-in-one to the delight of famous brewers and their dedicated beer fans. While the fundraiser brought together professional brewers with many beer loving duffers, there were also many expert golfers in the midst.

The Sasquatch BrewAm took place on July 28, 2006, opening day of the Oregon Brewers Festival, and was held on the beautiful McMenamins Edgefield 18-hole, par-3 Pub Course. Many of the participating breweries and local businesses generously sponsored holes and donated goods for the many awards and raffles prizes given away. A special thanks to Rose and Raindrop Restaurant and Pub, who sponsored the popular beer bus to get participants to and from the event and downtown Portland, and the Yakima Chief who underwrote the picnic lunch.

Head brewers from the likes of Elysian Brewing, Full Sail Brewing, Rogue Ales, Walking Man Brewing, Laurelwood Pub & Brewery, and Steelhead Brewing just to name a few changed out of their normal brewing overalls and grabbed a set of clubs and a pint of beer to raise money for the Glen Hay Falconer Foundation brewing scholarship program. The lowest score went to the Old Lompoc group, followed closely by the Laurelwood foursome. Honors for the highest score, also known as the "duffer" (and best sportsmanship) award, went to the 21st Amendment/Boulder Brewing group.

The Sasquatch BrewAm was too much fun to do only once. So pick up your clubs and start practicing now for next years BrewAm which is scheduled for Friday, July 28, 2006 at the McMenamins Edgefield.
